Beyond CSI: An Overview of The Nashua Children's Charity Foundation

If you happen to be shopping at the Woodmead Makro in Johannesburg on the right Saturday at 8:15 in the morning, you might just run into Helen Fraser, the Operations Director of the Nashua Children's Charity Foundation, and her SWAT team of expert shoppers.

After two hours of rigorous shopping they emerge with a cavalcade of shopping trolleys loaded with roughly R200 000 worth of food, cleaning material and toiletries. These groceries are distributed on a rotational basis to the 104 children's organisations that are in the NCCF's permanent portfolio with between 20 and 22 charities receiving these goods each month. The organisations include orphanages, day care centres, crèches, soup kitchens, outreach centres, special needs schools and safe houses.

And that's just one charitable aspect that the NCCF focuses on. The full story of this organisation began over 30 years ago, long before companies began getting involved with CSI projects as a means to boost their BEE ratings.

Back then, Nashua got involved with charity work for the simple reason that the company's CEO at the time believed it was their responsibility to make a difference in the lives of those that needed it the most.

Helen was involved in the charity work that Nashua carried out right from the start. Over time the volume of requests for help that the company received grew to the point where Nashua realised there was a real need to formalise the process, at which point they turned to Helen for her help and guidance.

She gladly accepted the responsibility of managing Nashua's ongoing CSI projects but agreed to do it under two conditions. The first was that their focus would be entirely on children and the second was that the NCCF be created as a proper registered organisation.

Over time, Helen instilled a third guiding principle that the charity be run as a "sustainable living foundation". In other words, the NCCF doesn't believe in handing over cheques to organisations and then walking away thinking the problem is solved.

Instead, the NCCF visits the charities that appeal to them for help, assess their individual needs and try to provide for those charities in a way that promotes sustainable living and improves the lives of the children those charities care for in a meaningful way.

In this respect, the NCCF provides the following:

- Groceries, cleaning materials and toiletries
- Education (which includes school uniforms, stationery and educational equipment)
- Building and renovations
- Sponsored outings and entertainment
- Office automation equipment
- Oral and dental care from Cahi Dental Practice and the Paedodontic Society of South Africa
- And so many more generous sponsorships - too many to mention.

Each of those seven pillars branches out into a staggering list of basic necessities and services that the NCCF provides for the charities under its care.

/ NCCF

The NCCF currently assists approximately 15 000 children with almost 600 000 meals every month that include two meals a day and a school lunch pack per child.

In terms of education, the NCCF supplies school uniforms, school stationery, school bags, educational toys, tables and chairs and even wall charts to schools, including special needs schools, day care centres and pre-schools.

When it comes to building, Nashua assists with additions and renovations and helps with all the necessary documentation required before any build can commence.

The year 2019 saw one of our largest ever builds with the addition of a new classroom to the MCK Special School. This build has enhanced the space for the primary phase deaf learners attending the school.

Lastly, in terms of sponsored outings and entertainment, the NCCF takes children from all over Gauteng to a variety of places including Sun City Valley of the Waves, Gold Reef City Theme Park, Monte Casino Bird Gardens, the Pilanesburg Game Reserve, City Sightseeing open top bus tour and year-end Nandos lunches enjoyed by children from different homes and shared with celebrities including sports stars, actors, singers, and more.

Throw in Nashua's Annual Golf Day, which raises over R400 000 for the NCCF, Mandela Day and International AIDS Awareness Day activities, Valentine's Day with their undies drive and the countless other small acts of kindness that the charity is involved in and you'll begin to understand the scope of this life-changing foundation.

Beyond CSI there are organisations that make it their mandate to assist with charities, not for the benefit of those organisations, but rather because they have a genuine desire to give back and to make other people's lives better.

The NCCF is one of those organisations. You may not see news stories on TV and in the newspapers about the selfless deeds they carry out on a continual basis, but on any given day, Helen and her team can be found in townships all over the country doing what they can to make South Africa a better place.

“We believe in nurturing the well-being of children, as well as fostering sustainable, child-friendly living conditions to ensure that our future leaders grow healthy and perform optimally.”

Helen Fraser, Operations
Director of the Nashua Children's Charity Foundation

What do we do?

The Nashua Children's Charity Foundation provides approximately 600 000 meals per month to more than 15 000 children. We also purchase clothing, cleaning material and toiletries for charities as part of our sustainable living projects, and treat children to various outings, including trips to Sun City, Gold Reef City and numerous lunch treats.

The foundation also focuses greatly on education opportunities through the provision of school uniforms, stationery, and educational equipment. Although education is our key priority area, the foundation also believes in improving the basic living conditions of their supported charities, which includes renovations, additions and alterations to the homes that the foundation cares for. Beds, blankets and bedding are also provided by the NCCF.

The NCCF is Empowerdex rated at 98 percent.

In addition to the 104 children's organisations that the NCCF assists on a regular basis, the foundation also gives ad hoc support, as often as once a month through additional appeals that they receive. This support has included food, clothing, toys, linen, school uniforms, bags and stationery, to children living in the Waterwax and Mangolongolo informal settlements.

Ongoing annual support of the Johannesburg Junior and Mini Council has also greatly benefitted our charities with generous blanket donations, Easter egg distribution to more than 15 000 children, the invitation to more than 100 NCCF children to attend the Council's annual Dean Walt KIDZ Carnival and in addition to the year-end sweet donation to 1000s of children and the councillors assisting with the monthly grocery shop at Makro Woodmead and the sorting of goods for our annual Mandela Day distribution.

/ ABANGANI ENKOSINI

NPO number: 038-721

Location: Alexandra, Gauteng

Contact number: Sophy Mongake (011) 443 0682 / 072 609 4444

Abangani Enkosini is situated in the yard of a doctor's surgery in Alexandra where its founder, the late Portia Mongake, lived in a shack that contains fridges, food, clothing, linen and one large mattress on which she slept with 11 abandoned toddlers. An adjoining shack houses the makeshift kitchen where more than 150 children are fed every day under the watchful eye of Sophy Mongake who has taken over the running of the facility.

Many of the children assisted are HIV positive, a large number are orphaned, and of course, they are all vulnerable. Abangani provides porridge for each child when they pass by on their way to school, as well as a lunch box. After school, the children receive a substantial meal which is in fact their dinner and is usually eaten around 16h00.

The project provides a safe place for children to congregate after school, and ensures that every child whom they help is enrolled in and attends school, as this is a prerequisite condition for receiving meals. Despite the Nashua Children's Charity Foundation spending approximately R11 000 per month on their groceries, Abangani is forced to turn a number of children away every day as they do not have the resources to feed any more mouths. A large number of the children received school uniforms, school bags and stationery from the NCCF at the start of the 2020 school year.

So, in 2017 BGCSA decided they needed to open a Club in Alexandra to serve the children that were being left behind in the area. In partnership with the City of Johannesburg a huge need for afterschool programs was identified in the Three Corners area, adjacent to London Road.

Boys & Girls Clubs of South Africa opened their fourth Club in Alexandra in July 2018. The Club currently serves over 300 children, with daily attendance at well over 200. The Club offers Power Hour (homework support), Smart (gender, sex, and personal development), Sports, Arts, and Technology programs for the children to participate in. In addition to these programs many of the club members also rely on the meal they receive every day they attend the Club. On average 200 meals are served per day. The Alex Club has access to high quality facilities which include a football field, 8 basketball and netball courts, as well as multiple rooms where the facilitators can work with the children.

Bonolo Nursery for Disabled was established in 2017 and is named after its founder Daphney's daughter who has cerebral palsy and who was struggling with mainstream schooling. She discovered that many children with varying disabilities were kept at home. This spurred Daphney to fight the stigma surrounding disabled children in her community.

The school assists these children with fine and gross motor skills, helps with potty training, patterning exercises and story-telling. Most of the 23 children are wheelchair bound and still in nappies. Daphney's one aim is to let the children interact with able bodied children and to expose them to outdoor activities. The NCCF has supplied the school with a large quantity educational equipment and is committed to supply further groceries, cleaning materials and toiletries on an ongoing basis. The children received school bags and stationery from the NCCF.

Contact number: Frans Leso 083 467 7097

The Daycare Pre-school Group was established in August 2010, operating as a mother body for 9 centres in Ivory Park and Tembisa. The children attending the various day care centres are aged 3 months to 6 years, and are all from disadvantaged communities. The centres operate from 06h00 to 17h00, Mondays to Fridays. Approximately 420 children attend the 16 day care pre-schools and receive breakfast, lunch and an afternoon snack.

The schools teach literacy, numeracy and basic life skills. They are building a generation of hope, with the aim of having these children enter primary school as creative and confident youngsters. Christine's EDC raised funds to build a Grade R classroom, but due to high building and material costs, could not complete the project. Builders, Danny K and the NCCF stepped in to undertake this project. Jungle gyms, a train and more has been donated by King David Victory Park nursery school to the many ECD's supported by Daycare Pre-School Group.

The impact of these interventions in the children's development has been remarkable. We engage with clinics for child Immunisation. It is our policy to remind parents to take children for immunisation and we check the clinic cards as most of the Lusemanzi parents are still very young and often fail to take children for immunisations. Our children entering primary school consistently achieve high results and Lusemanzi has been commended on their teaching skills and the foundation they have laid. We annually hold a 16 day of Activism campaign where our children and their parents walk the streets with placards bearing messages to stop child abuse.

The center has been notified that it does not fall under the jurisdiction of Chris Hani Baragwanath Hospital, but under the United Cerebral Palsy Society who want to evict them from their premises. The only alternative available to Ratanang is to purchase the facility themselves for an unimaginable cost of R18mil. They are going to discuss the matter with the hospital.

The Nashua Children's Charity Foundation continues to purchase regular groceries for Ratanang and with limited help from the hospital and Health Department. The unit has a flourishing vegetable garden that supplements the NCCF purchases.

/ SANTU HIV/AIDS RELIEF PROJECT

NPO 072-185

Location: Lufhereng, Soweto

Contact number: Phumi 073 088 2574 / 083 771 1585

SANTU was established in 2008 with the primary objective of relieving the burden placed on child-headed households, and giving support to those directly affected or infected with HIV/AIDS.

SANTU programmes offer home-based care, stress relief, educational awareness and poverty alleviation. They receive no government funding and rely completely on donations from the public and private sector, in order to feed more than 500 children daily. With 60% of households in Lufhereng unemployed, the need is serious. SANTU no longer has the luxury of a resident social worker and so the children in need of this support are taken to the local clinic. Sadly there is also a marked increase in the number of child-headed households in the area. The NCCF will continue to support the efforts of SANTU by providing regular groceries, better equipping their meager kitchen and supplying sufficient eating utensils for all the children with a purchase of a further 500 bowls. 1 litre pots have also been supplied to assist with the cooking of such large quantities of food.

Santu has been forced to relocate their inadequate facility to land provided by the local council. Thanks to the NCCF appointed builder, Danny K and the NCCF, their new kitchen, office and store room has been built with sufficient space to provide for the daily needs of the children. The NCCF has provided school uniforms for some of the children being assisted by Santu.

Villa Le Themba is a home situated in Van Riebeeck Park for Special Needs children. Villa Le Themba is managed by a committee in partnership with the AFM Welfare Organisation Umephi.

Villa Le Themba houses twelve abandoned babies and children who are all special needs. By special needs we refer to those who need more than just a bottle, nappy change, love and a cuddle. They require the administration of medicines, some may only be fed via a permanent stomach tube, others require oxygen, have the need to be suctioned on a regular basis and require physiotherapy. Many of the children are way behind in development and therefore require constructive stimulation. Unfortunately, some of them are HIV positive and suffer from terminal illnesses.

The home has requested assistance with painting as well as rust proofing of burglar bars and gates which the NCCF will add to their renovation projects.

Villa of Hope Children's Home houses 64 children who have been orphaned or require alternative care due to abuse, neglect and abandonment. Children that are affected or infected by HIV and AIDS or other illnesses also live in the home. The vision of this organisation is to reduce child abuse and neglect within their surrounding communities by promoting family values. These children are aged between 1 and 18 years. The home has capacity for a further 20 children, but the problems in recruiting suitable house parents is limiting this.

The NCCF provides regular groceries to the centre and has taken the children on a number of outings including a visit to Valley Of Waves, Gold Reef City and will endeavour to meet their request for a Sun City winter visit. At the start of 2019 school year, the NCCF provided all the required uniforms and stationery.

Zakheni believes in the development of life skills and in the general building of a positive self-image for these mostly disadvantaged children. They place great emphasis on mathematics and science, and assist their pupils in becoming responsible, independent learners by the time they enter primary school. The centre also has a group of women who are baking and selling cakes for extra income. The centre has designed a cycle track to teach children the rules of the road to this end the NCCF have supplied scooters.

Not all the parents are able to pay school fees and many of the children are sent home with a parcel of food, due to their dire family circumstances. The NCCF has donated a much needed fridge to the centre.
